

GREENSHAW LEARNING TRUST

YOU can be a school governor

300,000 people across the country are already school governors, why not join them?

The Greenshaw Learning Trust is a fast-growing academy trust successfully supporting and improving primary and secondary schools in the Sutton, Croydon, Bracknell, Bristol and Gloucestershire areas.

Our schools are welcoming and inclusive, at the heart of their local community. We are ambitious for our schools and our students – and we believe that there is no ceiling on what can be achieved by anyone, regardless of their circumstances or background.

Each school in the Trust is led by its own leadership team and local governing body. Strong governance is key to the success of our schools – providing strategic leadership, oversight of financial and academic performance, and challenge and support for the headteacher and senior leadership team.

We want our governing bodies to reflect the diversity of their school population and local community and we would welcome interest from people of all ages and backgrounds.

As a school governor you can make a real impact on a school's success, supporting children and young people in your local community; applying your knowledge and skills to ensure the school does the best for all its pupils; and learning more about aspects of education you find interesting and gaining experience that can positively impact on other parts of your life. No particular qualifications are required and support and training is provided.

If you are over 18 years of age, and are willing and able to give time and energy to the role, you could be just the person we are looking for.
